TENSION AT BREAKING POINT

NOGALES, Mexico, Nov. 14.—(U.P.)—The state of Sonora, stronghold of anti-administration presidential candidate, Jose Vasconcelos, was considering tonight as a series of political incidents increased election tension to the breaking point.

Tonight the federal government had moved 5,000 additional troops into the state to guard against bloodshed in election rioting at Hermosillo, Nogales, and other points as customs guards seized a large shipment of ammunition at the international border.

The day's high lights on the west coast included:

CARS CRASH AT HIGH SPEED

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14.—(U.P.)—Head-on collision between a fast moving stage and an automobile caused the death of two persons near here tonight and injured nine others.

The driver of the automobile, Mike Messina, and a passenger of the stage, Mrs. J. P. Beepenbrock of San Francisco were killed.

Fred Alpen, Burlingame, the stage driver, was critically hurt.

Others who were injured suffered mainly from lacerations, bruises and cuts, being fortunate that the stage did not overturn.

Witnesses told men conducting two investigations started immediately after the wreck, that Messina, who was enroute to his home in San Jose, seemed to swerve suddenly from his line of traffic directly in front of the San Francisco bound bus.

Messina's machine tore open the side of the stage from front to back, coming to a stop near the baggage compartment at the rear.

"He was going twice as fast as we were," Mrs. Ellen Logan, 47, who was seated next to Mrs. Deepenbrock said when she entered the south San Francisco hospital. Speed of the stage has been estimated at 35 miles an hour. The stage driver was unconscious.

Those injured were:

Mrs. Harry Davis, 43, of Burlingame; Mrs. Logan of San Francisco; Mrs. Ernest Lamson, San Francisco; Mrs. Louis P. Peters, and her four year old son, Thomas, San Francisco; Mrs. Donald Marr, San Francisco; John Robson, Alameda and Alexander Martin, San Francisco.

RED CROSS FUND NEAR $1000 MARK

Swelled by a contribution of $192 from the Richmond Teachers association, and donations from stores and lodges of Richmond, the local Red Cross Roll reached the sum of $959.75 yesterday.

On Wednesday the total contributions reached $558.55 and with $401.75 collected yesterday the roll call is nearing the $1000 mark.

Women workers have been putting forth every effort in their house to every campaign, and when the canvass really begins to take formation, funds are expected to roll in from all parts of the district.

Federal Groups

The majority of the lodges have not as yet been heard from, but contributions are expected to be received from the fraternal groups of Richmond in the near future.

The stores of Richmond have been supporting the campaign loyally, subscriptions coming in regularly and many of the stores and corporations of the town are boasting the 10 percent banner.

According to a publicity agent by I. M. Irwin, publicist agent for the local chapter, the Red Cross campaign will go over with "a bang" if every citizen of Richmond puts his well known shoulder to the equally well known wheel and shoves.

Rader Optimistic

George Rader, campaign chairman, is also optimistic as to the outcome of the drive, and asks that any resident who is missed or overlooked in the house to house campaign drop into the headquarters at Tenth street and Macdonald avenue and renew his or her membership for the present year.

The following special gifts were turned in to Red Cross headquarters yesterday: Admiral Dewey Auxiliary No. 17, $5; S. H. Kress company $5; American Legion Auxiliary No. 10, $5; Merrells Drug Store, $5; J. W. Smith $5; O. A. Paulsen $5; Richmond Teachers association, $192.

Rehearsing Of Phone
Rate Will Be Asked

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14.—(U.P.)—Applications for rehearing of decisions by the state railroad commission, under which telephone rates in the San Francisco bay region would be raised and those in Los Angeles would be reduced, will be filed Nov. 27, it was decided at a meeting here today.

The conference of city attorneys and experts was held in the office of John J. O'Toole, city attorney here. Those attending agreed that San Francisco, Oakland, Berkeley, and the Hotel Men's association would file separate appeals.

Discussion at the meeting indicated the petitions would charge that the cities' pleadings were ignored, the commission reasoned "illogically," in contending San Francisco and Los Angeles should have comparable rates, because of the difference in size of the two areas, and certain records of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company had not been produced.

"Painless Dentist"
Uses New Method

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—(U.P.)—It really was a delicate orthodontal operation, but it looked like a prize fight, so here's the story as unfolded in police court today.

"No judge, we weren't fighting," said John Nowak. "I had a tooth that was hurting so I asked my old friend, John Dost, to knock it out for me. He said he couldn't bear to strike a friend, so I had to punch his nose to get him started. It worked swell."

Municipal judge Heller gulped, but made the following ruling: "I'll let John Dost off because you started the fight. I'll let you off on the charge of fighting because you tell me you weren't fighting, but you'll have to pay $5 and costs for practicing dentistry without a license."

Incendiary Hint In Flames That Sweep Piling

Fire of undetermined origin was brought under control at the Richmond Inner Harbor wharf No. 2 (Sugar wharf) early this morning after it had given firemen a hard battle for several hours.

The flames, fed by creosoted piling under the fender and platform under the wharf are believed to have started at about 11:30 p. m., but the alarm was not turned in until 11:55 and at that time the piling under the southern end of the wharf was a raging inferno.

Horace Larkin, 829 Pennsylvania avenue, and Lowell Russell, 212 Chandler avenue, employees of the Standard Oil company, turned in the alarm and aided in fighting the blaze. According to the youths they noticed the blaze as they drove alone Ohio avenue near Eighth street. They dashed to the wharf to investigate, turned in the alarm and then turned on one of the fire hoses kept at the wharf.

Seen Half Hour

Earl Jalnke, who lives across the bay from the wharf, said that he had noticed the blaze for more than half an hour, but thought that it was a bonfire left by workmen. He said that he kept an eye on it, however, and at about the same moment that he heard the fire engines the entire southern end of the structure burst into flames.

Fire Chief Cooper was unable to determine the extent of the damage last night. Firemen were handicapped in fighting the fire because they were unable to get underneath the structure. As they threw water into one section another area caught into flames.

Chief Cooper said that a fire company would be kept on guard throughout the night and until all danger of the fire breaking out again is past. He commanded a South Bay Pacific switch engine which was in the vicinity and had a pump six feet high to pump water into the trench dug in the street. According to employees engaged in laying the new natural gas mains from Richmond to Oakland, such an accident is rare.

As the pressure became stronger, the clamped pipe end was suddenly blown 20 feet through the air, wrecked a fence and ploughed through the wall of the Orchard home, ending in the living room.

The force of the impact shattered more than a dozen windows in the house, and flying glass and timbers practically ruined the finish of the walls and shattered the furniture.

Orchard was sitting almost in front of the hole torn in the wall by the clamp, which bounced off the other wall about a foot from his head. Mrs. Orchard and Mr. and Mrs. Jenner and their daughter June, were sitting across the line of the object's course, June suffered slight scratches and Jenner was thrown to the floor from the force of the impact.

Orchard was apparently struck by numerous flying objects, suffering injuries to his left leg, right ankle, and upper arm.

Plaster was broken from every room in the house, much of the furniture was damaged or broken, and telephone and light wires were pulled from the walls. The wall itself, according to statements made at the scene, will require considerable rebuilding.

According to K. O. Pearce, in charge of laying the natural gas mains between Richmond and Oakland, the accident is the first of its kind in his memory.

Man, Wife Held
On Drunk Count

His arrest followed an alleged "wild party" in which a 14 year old El Cerrito girl took part. The father of the girl swore to the complaint.

THE WOMAN OF IT

BY MARGUERITE MOORE MARSHALL

Ten Tips on the Election for Women

1. Walk, do not run, to the nearest polling place to your voting residence. It is right to cast your vote, but you can refrain from getting feverishly excited about it this year.

2. The early voter catches the first train to the glorious autumn countryside, or the first place in line at the ferry. This will be an Election Night when you won't have to stay in town because you want to be as close as possible to the returns on a close contest.

3. Two of a kind, remember, do not constitute a voting pair—quite the opposite. So if you and your husband, like the birds in their little nest, agree on the same ticket, be sure you both vote it. You can't pair, unless—of course it is much more likely—each of you thinks the other is all wrong.

4. As to the vital issues which the current local campaign is bound to decide, don't get into any violent argument. You might be asked to prove it.

5. Be thankful for small favors—for instance, that the religious issue and the whispering campaign have not, this year, made you ashamed of belonging to a sex which could be taken so seriously.

6. If you haven't yet decided what to wear a long skirt, take your husband shopping, after both of you have voted, and submit the style referendum to him. Then, at least, he can't blame you later!

7. As you cast your ballot, cheer yourself with the reflection that in the coming evening it won't be necessary to keep turning out political speeches without a kick in a campaign trail.

8. If you have a pocket, don't waste it to-night on raffles and hosiery. What's all the shouting for? It's minutes in advance of the election of the city, as manifested by the Mighty Mids. Mids who are responsible for the campaign, certainly are so gloriously this "Women's" election.

9. When this time seems exhausted, remember Ruth Pratt—the candidate she would have fought, her intelligence and dignity and high integrity—and remember that New York women will run a campaign some day, with a woman to represent them!

WINDOW-SHOPPING

I have brought you treasures from east and south and west—
A bit of jade from China, some teak-wood from Japan.
A tray of burnished copper from Burma, and the best
Of fruit and spice and condiments that have been known to man.
A prayer-rug from the Orient I toss beneath your feet.
Tobacco from the Indies, a lucky piece from France.
When I go window-shopping on any city street
I buy the best of everything for you

We Wouldn't Put It Past the Girls
According to a recent dispatch from St. Louis only self-supporting men at Washington University take the jobs which require them to wear aprons. Girl students refuse such jobs on the ground that their social standing suffers. And it may be so—but it may also be a deep-laid, co-ed plot to graduate young men who will be good "kitchen husbands."

FOR EARLY YOUTH

I do not envy you your wings
Spread out in swift first flight;
Nor you, whose heart so lightly sings
At night.
I do not envy you your trysts
With silent, fevered desire,
Nor you who fashion from the mists
A life.
I do not envy you your song,
Nor pain when you will find
That dreams and beauty all belong
To mind.

If I should suddenly arise
And, looking deep into your eyes,

Forever and for ever with you,
I think your answer, dear, would be:

A DISH A DAY

By Nancy Morris

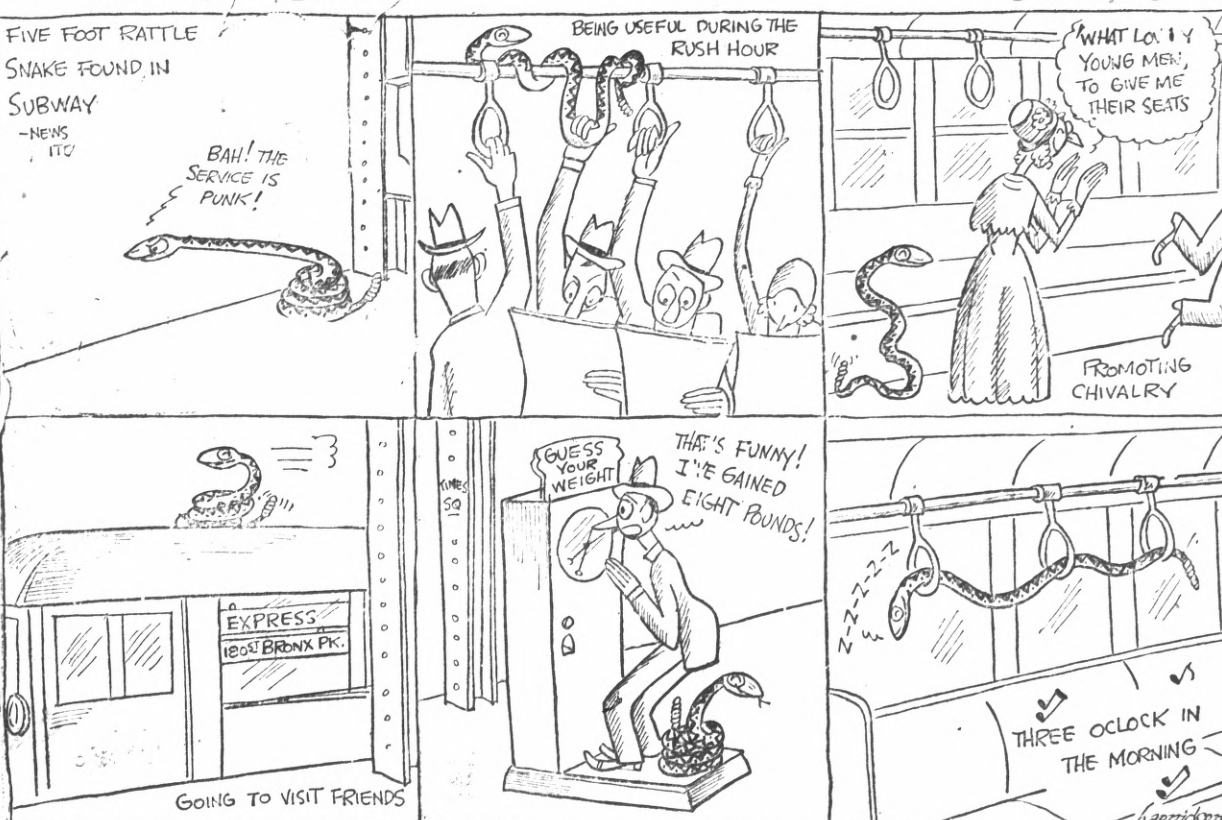

In the majority of homes oysters are regarded with salted almonds and olives as a special luxury to be reserved for Thanksgiving, Christmas or company dinners.

Once the whole, some oyster is one of the most nutritious and versatile of foods. Its use should be widespread. Being rich in iodine, phosphorus and iron, oysters are particularly valuable in the diet of growing children, who need exactly these elements to form strong bone and tooth structures.

Collecting the food value of oysters is not high. No waste need be taken into consideration, of course. Often mothers encounter trouble in getting their children to drink as much milk as the specialists advise. Serving part of the daily milk ration—one quart for each child—in the form of a hot oyster stew is an excellent way to encourage the child to take milk happily.

Oyster stew with wholehearted wafers or sandwiches and apple sauce and cookies make a good lunch for the school child who comes home at noon but has to hurry back to the afternoon session.

REFINEMENT OF TASTE AND A KEEN SENSE FOR WHAT IS DECORATIVE IS SHOWN IN THE INTERESTING ARRANGEMENT OF ETCHINGS IN THIS DELIGHTFUL CORNER OF A BREAKFAST ROOM

Order and Emphasis Influence To-Day's Decorative Schemes

A GREAT deal is said about the modern use of color, of changed lines and designs created in terms distinctly different from all that has gone before. These three elements are in the foreground of the new movement in art as well as interior decoration, and should have as much consideration as we care to give to them.

They are the chief characteristics of up-to-date, comparable to such definite changes in style as the princess line and long skirts after a period of exact opposites. And it is perfectly natural to find them so dramatic in their newness that they almost make us forget two simple changes which are equally important in matters of decoration, although they are not so obvious.

Order and Emphasis, for example, are two modernization secrets which can be employed with very decorative results in schemes which are not particularly modern. Without necessarily ending much that is new to our possessions, without discarding much that is old, we can use these two factors to work wondrous changes in the general plan of rooms.

In the breakfast room of the photograph our point is illustrated in terms of furniture. The floor covering is a measure in every room in the house. For here there is not a strictly modern piece in the entire collection of furnishings. The etchings do not represent modern subjects. The floor covering is not a new design. Yet at first glance we would classify the room and colorful design. Its hues reflected by the objects of art in the cabinet on the table. Both schemes are exceedingly simple, yet they possess a great deal of character and the modern viewpoint.

Similarly, order and emphasis—in the new meaning of both terms—might be carried into each room in the home, here eliminating non-essentials in decoration, thus pruning off the superfluous which, although quite all right in their time, are out of fashion now, substituting for indefinite color schemes those which are typical of the clear, clean, fresh modern treatment, retaining pictures where present frames are ornate and out of character with the modern theme; more important, still, re-arranging them in up-to-date formations, with wires and nails concealed of course.

In the well-furnished home mirrors fulfill many functions. They are the ever useful "looking glasses," they repeat delightful bits of color and motion in the room; they add to the feeling of spaciousness; and, by reflection, they double the light, returning it cheerfully whence it came. Modern furniture and mirrors admirably suited to the simplicity of the new schemes, which need this subtle accent by reflection to repeat the charm of a brand-new outline, a daring color theme or a fascinating pattern.

A great deal can be learned about adapting new ideas to old furnishings by visiting the modern sections in different stores and studios, observing new arrangements of such simple decorative things as books, smoking accessories, objects for the cabinet; the new cushions, which are invariably tailored—rarely elaborated now, the latest trend in color and design, new table service—all items of decoration which can be changed and suited to the present mode at a cost so reasonable that it would scarcely be felt in the average household. Instead of completely overturning present decorative schemes, these subtle changes can be made from week to week, if desired, a plan which assures each successive improvement of its full measure of appreciation.

If one is a bit uncertain about one's personal ideas on the subject, it may be well to consult a conscientious decorator, our Home Decoration Department, or the advisor which most stores provide for their home furnishing departments. In a number of departments special training on this very subject has been given to clerks so that they may interpret intelligently the needs of the buyer who wants to bring her room into line with that which is new without entirely remodeling or refurbishing. This source of help often proves most convenient, since there is all opportunity for personal consultation.

In the setting illustrated, the crisp black and whiteness of the patterned floor sets the keynote of design for the room, and finds an echo in the contrasting of the white porcelain objects against the dark background of the cabinet and in the vase of crystal. The might be covered in almost any effective color—a rich plain green, either such as bronze-henna, or a striking blue. And, if desired, the brick-brac might accent this dominant color and introduce others that are complementary.

Or, reversing the emphasis, we may use a plain floor covering with one of these upholstered in one of the new modern fabrics having a definite

What Society Is Wearing

MISS BETTY BALLARD
CARRIES A MUZZY STREET
ENSEMBLE

An amusing little fur muff accents the costume worn by Miss Betty Ballard in the accompanying picture.

The coat which clings to the slender silhouette of the past season is a type that will always be in vogue, is varied by an elbow length cape. The same dark fur that is used for the muff appears as a border on the cape's collar.

With the wrap Miss Ballard wears a small, brimless velvet hat, boasting the accepted down the back. Beneath the coat she is glimpsed a silk frock, finished off by a petted hem. This unisex hem line is one of the newer points of the autumn mode. Cloaked silk stockings and three velvet suede ties complete the smart costume. This ensemble designed by Chanel will be worn by Miss Ballard in the one-act play, "Von Nover Krow" sponsored by Mrs. Vincent Astor, for the benefit of the League for American Citizenship.

HUMAN STORY PRESENTED IN "BIG TIME"

While "Big Time" Fox Movie-tone all talking drama is a backstage in vaudeville story, it is one of human interest and this angle has been concentrated upon. The dramatic climax is reached in a motion picture studio in Hollywood.

Lee Tracy, late star of "Broadway" and of "The Front Page" New York stage productions, and Mac Clarke, another favorite from Broadway, play the leading roles. Tracy characterizes Eddie Burns, a conceited small time hoofer who marries Lily Clark, his vaudeville team mate and whom he deserts after their baby boy is born. Eddie and his new partner, portrayed by Josephine Dunn, set to make good and Eddie finds himself out of a job and with no hope of another one.

Years pass, the boy grows up and he and his mother obtain work in motion pictures where Eddie finally discovers them in a Hollywood studio. Eddie has been in the crotch and has been made to see the error of his way through long years of despair. He has never ceased to love Lily and when he finds her and his son, a dramatic situation is reached that is sure to substitute sympathy for scorn by those who recognize his mental transition.

"Big Time" which opens today at the Fox-California theater, to all this week does not lack for comedy. The fun is provided by Daphne Pollard, well known screen comedienne and the incomparable Negro comedian, Stepin Fetchit. Kenneth Hawes is responsible for the direction.

Also on the program is Fox News and Talking comedy "Dancing Around."

EARLY ACTION ON TAX CUT SEEN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—(U.P.)—Congressional leaders prepared today to enact swiftly, perhaps by Christmas, the administration's novel one year $150,000,000 income tax reduction plan. Its adoption is virtually assured because of its apparent unanimous support.

The plan, announced unexpectedly by Secretary Mellon last night, was disclosed today as a "composite picture" of opinions of financial and political leaders.

Chairman Hawley of the House Ways and Means Committee, after announcing that his committee would have a short resolution embodying it ready for the opening of the regular session of Congress Dec. 2, or soon thereafter, said the treasury was responsible for the "temporary" reduction idea.

Hawley termed this plan, under which the one per cent reduction will apply only on incomes received during the calendar year 1929, as a "flexible" provision.

Plan Told

Although all previous American tax reductions have been carried out by enacting permanent laws, England usually manages new laws by temporary measures limited to a definite period. Hawley pointed out. He said this method was valuable because it would prevent long debate and further legislation of the government revenues in the future should not come up to expenditure needs.

Secretary Mellon's announcement did not make clear the temporary or "flexible" nature of the plan, but undersecretary Ogden L. Mills tonight voiced the suggestion that a tax reduction next year is not precluded by the treasury proposal. This plan, he pointed out, will enable the treasury to give the taxpayers the benefit of any non-recurring surpluses such as come from temporary revenues in the future.

Mills asserted that President Hoover, who approved Mellon's tax reduction, would recommend adoption of "flexible" taxation as a permanent policy, and that Mellon in the treasury's annual report would discuss the same proposition. The treasury idea is to have the president and treasury make annual recommendations to Congress for the rates to be charged in the following year.

Although the treasury's proposal would apply only to normal individual income taxes—up to $20,000 a year—and corporation taxes, Mills said that it was possible the reduction might be extended to include the individual surtaxes on the larger individual incomes.

Record Cargo Of Molasses Unloaded Here

The British steamer Athelmer left the Point San Pablo wharf last night after having unloaded a record cargo of 7500 tons of molasses. The cargo has been stored in the new tanks at the Pacific Molasses company's plant here.

The molasses was pumped by pipe line from the boat. According to officers of the vessel, although the pipes were heated by steam, the task of unloading the thick black fluid was longer than expected.

The sugar cane residue is stored with molasses from Hawaii, which has been arriving here frequently.

LEGION ELEVEN TO MEET N.S. TEAM

According to prognostications by D. M. Beasley, manager of the American Legion football team of Richmond, the Apex Athletic club of San Francisco is in for a bad trouncing when they engage the local squad at the Richmond Union high school field Sunday.

Although the Richmond boys have had a bad mistason slump they are now coming out of it nicely. Indications of this were evidenced last Sunday when the local team played the highly-touted Alameda American Legion squad of Alameda.

The Richmondites held the lead boys scoreless, playing good football, and not even being threatened for the first half. In the third quarter, however, the visiting advantage proved too much for the locals and Alameda passed over the winning touchdown.

However, the Alameda team had lost but one game this year, winning against teams of high caliber throughout, and although the Richmond team lost it was a moral victory for the squad, and showed that they are now ready to engage any team in the bay region on equal terms.

Practice for the coming game Sunday, has been going on several nights a week in the high school gymnasium, under the direction of Coach "Red" Wadlow.

"Red" by the way is no slouch of a footballer himself, having played first string tackle on the wonder teams of Berkeley high school a few years ago.

Jack Daley, captain and end of the local squad is still out of the game, and will be missed at his position. It is doubtful if Daley will be able to play again this season, due to injuries sustained in the Antioch game a few weeks ago.

The Apex club however is not going to be any pushover at all, having played steady football throughout the year, winning the majority of its games. The only game it has lost is one with Napa losing by a score of 21-14.

A close hard fought game is being looked for Sunday, as the local squad has shown real improvement, and is preparing for a game with the Castro Park Native Sons of San Francisco a week from Sunday.

The game this week which will be played on the local field, will start at 2:30 Sunday and will give fans an opportunity to see the Richmond lads in action.

GARFINKLES, STUDEBAKERS, MAMMYS CAGERS VICTORS

Garfinkle's cagers were victorious over the latter squad by a 24 to 14 score last night in an A division, city league contest played in the Roosevelt gymnasium. The Studobakers swamped Ben Malik's 32 to 12, in another A division game. The Santa Fe cagers of the B division were defeated by Mammys Place 22 to 3.

The battle between Garfinkle's and Furrer's was almost even until the third quarter. The Garfinkle cagers then inaugurated an offense which soon put them in the lead. Furrer's had a fine offensive, but their defense broke down in the last two quarters.

In spite of the great margin maintained by the Studobakers over the Ben Malik boys, the contest was by no means a walk-away. The Studobaker backboard was continually bombarded, but the Ben Malik boys seemed unable to make good their shots.

The Mammys Place outfit easily outplayed the Santa Fe cagers by their first class pass work and the Renegades could not hinder the speedy offensive of the Mammys Place cagers.

The Union Oil squad of Olney will clash with the Studobakers Monday night at eight o'clock in the Roosevelt gymnasium. The second A division game on the card will be played between Santa Fe and Garfinkle's at nine o'clock. The Civic Center Tires will meet the Nationals at seven o'clock in a B contest.

The starting lineup for Garfinkle's in last night's contest was: Gillan 4, Barber 6, forwards; Lemke 8, center; G. Gordon 1, running guard; Lee 2, standing guard. The Garfinkle substitutes were: W. Gordon, forward; Flynn, center; Millevich 1, running guard.

The starting lineup for Furrer's was: DeBarre 1, Hall 2, forwards; Kenny 2, center; Lane 1, running guard; Swenson 5, standing guard. The Furrer substitutes were: Melin 1, forward; Baldwin 2, center.

The starting lineup for the Studobaker squad was: A. Muth 1, running guard; Swenson 5, standing guard. The Studobaker substitutes were: Gailbury 5, forward; Cornell 2, running guard.

Ben Malik's lineup was: Santalla 2, Powell 4, forwards; Johnson 2, center; McLaughlin 4, running guard; Abbott, standing guard. The Ben Malik substitute was Livermore, center.

The starting lineup for Mammys Place was: Marcos 8, Corra 3, forwards; Arnold 2, center; Weeks 5, running guard.

Obbl. standing guard. The substitutes for Mammys Place were: Sassone 1, Pace 3, forwards; O'Connell, standing guard.

The starting lineup for the Santa Fe Renegades was: Val-Medburn, forward; Green, center; Olson, running guard; Brown 1, standing guard. The Santa Fe substitutes were: Ferguson, forward; Arthur 2, center; Resner, running guard.

High Gridders Honored With Theater Party

The gridders of Richmond Union high school were honored at the Hi-Jinx held last night at the Fox-California theater by the Students' Association of Richmond Union high school.

The high school band played under the leadership of George Morris.

A song and dance act was performed by Frank Williams and Walter Freeman, high school pupils. The high school football section then gave the school yell, sang "The Navy Blue and Red," the local high school song. The yell was led by Woodrow Stodgrass, Regina Matthews, and Carl Drexel. A. W. Brady, manager of the Fox-California theater announced the various items on the program.

The feature picture was "The Sophomore" starring Sally O'Neill and Eddie Quillan.

Pitt May Play In Roses Game

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 14.—(U.P.)—Pittsburgh will accept an invitation to meet a Pacific coast team in the annual Tournament of Roses football game, if they complete their season without a defeat, W. Don Harrison, graduate manager of athletics declared today. "If we receive an invitation, I know that the faculty will not raise any objection," Harrison said.

HIGH CAGERS IN FIRST GAME TODAY

The Richmond Union high school cagers will play the first game of the season when they meet the Crockett high school squad at Crockett at four o'clock this afternoon.

There will be varsity, B and C contests. The local high school varsity is represented by a specially group of players who will be a big threat to the Crockett boys.

The B and C squads are also expected to make a first class showing in tonight's tournament. There are more than 70 boys out for the basketball team at Richmond Union high school, and Coach Phil Hempler has a fine aggregation from which to choose.

The local high school players will play several practice games before their entry into the Alameda County Athletic league in January. The Richmondites are training strenuously in order to reach their highest standard by that time.

'IRON MAN' OF BASEBALL DIES

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—(U.P.)—Death today ended the career of one of baseball's immortals, Joe McGinnity, whose courage and stamina during his long illness made him the personification of the appellation he gained from diamond fame—"The Iron Man."

McGinnity died at his home in Brooklyn, following a long illness from cancer. His death had been expected since he failed to rally from an operation, Aug. 27. Only his vitality kept him alive.

Born in Rock Island, Ill., on March 19, 1873, McGinnity became one of baseball's outstanding figures. He started with the Vanuren Ark. semi-pro team in 1892 and played throughout the 1926 season.

Massively built and with muscles hardened in an iron foundry, McGinnity's specialty was pitching and winning double headers. He pitched both the New York and Brooklyn National league teams to pennants.

At 52 McGinnity was manager, part owner and pitcher for the Dubuque, Iowa, Mississippi Valley club and won 29 games during the 1925 season.

Princeton Ends Grid Practice

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said:

"One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically, and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling. "Nujol" is so pure and harmless that a girl as easily "Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every daughter has this remarkable substance."

GOLD DIGGERS of BROADWAY

Copyright, 1929, Warner Bros. Pictures Inc.

This novel is based on the Warner Bros. & Vitaphone Natural Color Picture. Adapted from Avery Hopwood's play, "The Gold Diggers."

SYNOPSIS

Violet, a chorus girl, and her friend, Wally, enlist the aid of Jerry, a wealthy young man, to get the consent of Wally's uncle to their marriage. Jerry allows Uncle Steve to mistake her for Violet and assumes the role of a scheming woman so that he will be happy to let someone else marry his nephew. Jim Blake, Steve's lawyer, suggests that they take Jerry to lunch, to get acquainted before making a final decision, and Jerry's friend, Mabel, comes along. The gold-diggers start, and is brought to a climax two weeks later by a party Jerry has planned which Steve is to pay for.

As for poor Topsy, the man she was with had not taken his eyes off Jerry since the party had started. After a time she gave up trying to keep him interested in her. In spite of her figure, she centered her attention on her plate, and throwing all discretion to the winds, ate as she used to eat in her more slender days. If there had been nothing to eat, she would have gone to sleep from sheer boredom. Poor Topsy! Between courses she consoled herself thinking of past conquests, and she made a silent decision to leave such men as this one alone hereafter. He was a bit too young. Men over thirty were much more susceptible someone suggest a that she do one of her dances that made such a hit at the show ad much easier to handle. Young men could not be flattered so easily as the others. She tried to say something to Eleanor's man, but that aggressive woman was so monopolizing him that he had not the slightest opportunity to utter a word to anyone but her. With a sigh of resignation she turned to her plate once more, sure of the fact that that particular dish was much more interesting than any thing of anyone at that table.

The star of the show had long stopped paying any attention to her escort. Now that she was sure of him, she knew that she was taking no chances in drinking all that appetizing food for her. In fact, he drank right with her, but she would never allow him to outdo her. One cocktail followed another until her eyes became blurred, and the objects in front of her began to assume strange shapes. Somebody suggested that she do one of her dances that made such a hit at the show, and she complied, even though everything was swaying before her. When she sat down, tired and warm, she drank her partner's highball and raised her voice in a sentimental song that made her weep real tears.

Mabel had her troubles keeping Blake beside her throughout the meal. Once he told her he had a telephone call to make, and disappeared for nearly half an hour. When she went out to look for him, he was comfortably seated in an easy chair in the lounging room smoking a cigar. She was so dismayed that he told her a girl he about having waited fifteen minutes to use the telephone which had been constantly busy, and when he had finished, he decided to take a few more puffs on his cigar before going in. She put his cigar out for him, took his arm, and led him back to the dining room. She would not tolerate his eating a cold supper. He must come right in to start the next course which had been standing at his place too long already.

Once more at the table, Mabel looked at Blake with little attention. She filled his cocktail glass for him and lit his cigarettes. Then she told him flatteringly things about himself, comparing him favorably to the other men at the party. In fact, before the evening was over, Blake wondered whether he had not been understanding himself all these years.

Mabel was entirely oblivious to the rest of the party until she heard someone say:

"Go on, Mabel, sing."

"I'm too bashful," she replied,

Meanwhile, Topsy, who had finished eating, found that the party was getting dull for her. The man she had brought along, heartbroken because Jerry would pay no attention to him, had taken to drinking heavily, and at about this time, he was close to an unconscious state. She looked around forlornly, and when someone suggested that she entertain the crowd, she willingly performed, doing a travesty on interpretive dancing which everyone enjoyed. She had not and so much fun herself since the food had disappeared off her plate. Of course, please must have partly avenged her escort, who, on her return to the table, looked up sleepily and said:

"Splendid, splendid, my dear!" immediately after which he drank his eyes, and did not say another word until it was time to leave.

When all was as quiet as it could be once more, Jerry took another drink, simulating a liveliness that the small amount of liquor she had drunk could never have brought on.

"I bet you'd like to hear a good joke," she said to Lee in a voice loud enough for anyone to hear, and without waiting for him to answer, she continued:

THREE KILLED IN MEXICO RIOTING

the presidential election next Sunday was ordered immediately after the two railroad men, one a conductor and the other a porter, were arrested charged with smuggling ammunition into the country from the United States. The car had arrived in Nogales from Los Angeles and had just been switched across the international line when customs men discovered the cache of more than 5,000 rounds of 30-30 rifle ammunition in a battery box.

The crew of the car were placed under arrest and strict orders given for close search of all incoming railroad equipment hereafter.

Prison Stormed
At Hermisillo, hundreds of Vasconcelistas milled around the Sonora penitentiary in protest against the incarceration of Gonzales, whose newspaper has been an ardent supporter of the anti-administration candidate. A strong detachment of troops guarded the prison against any attempt to storm it and release the editor. Gonzales' attorney was disbarred yesterday when he started legal action to release the publisher. Vasconcelos was expected to arrive here tomorrow en route to Cananea, where he will spend election day. His campaign is in charge of Jesus Siqueiros, former mayor of Nogales and publisher of the newspaper El Noreste.

Ortiz-Rubio, the administration candidate, brought his campaign here for the first time today when airplanes dropped campaign literature on the city. The plane was said to be flown by a Mexican army aviator who became famous in the recent Escobar revolution.

Two building permits for the improvement of Richmond business houses were issued yesterday at the office of A. J. Hurley, city building inspector.

Wilson and Kratzer obtained a permit to remodel the interior of their undertaking parlors on Bissell avenue between Seventh and Eighth streets. The work costing $500 will be done by Wallace Snelgrove.

NEW RAIL LINE WOULD OPEN NORTHERN EMPIRE, EXPERT SAYS

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14.—The story of an undeveloped empire which the Great Northern and Western Pacific railroads would develop was related here today by C. L. Gardner, Portland, Ore., resource engineer, in the Interstate Commerce commission hearing on an application by the Great Northern and Western Pacific to connect those two railroads.

Agriculture would be profitable were there a market or facilities for reaching outside markets, Gardner told the hearing. The application requests permission to build 200 miles of tracks from Klamath Falls, Ore., to Keddle, Cal., at an estimated cost of $13,000,000.

The flight is centering on the contention that additional rail service between California and the Pacific Northwest is not needed. Southern Pacific representatives contend that such a route would take business from the Alturas cut-off, recently constructed by the Southern Pacific.

W. P. Kenney, vice president and traffic manager of the Great Northern, contended that the new line would not hurt Alturas cut-off because he said, business on that piece of road originates in exclusive Southern Pacific territory.

A feature of the hearing is the action of examiner Mahaffie in speeding up the representation of evidence by the witnesses. Time after time during the day he ruled out repetitions and told witnesses to confine themselves to relevant matter.

Thus, the second day of the hearing, was similar to the first in that it was a Great Northern-Pacific day. No evidence has been introduced by the Southern Pacific yet and won't be until the applicants complete their case.

Expenses Hit
Cross examinations through the day, however, indicated clearly that Southern Pacific attacks will be built around the allegation that the 200-mile strip will not pay a revenue on the $13,000,000 it will cost and that extension of the Great Northern so that it enters California will duplicate existing service with a resultant loss to shippers.

H. M. Adams, president of the Western Pacific, was the first witness today. He said lack of the joint through route with the Southern Pacific handicapped the Western Pacific so that it was using not more than 75 percent of its facilities. The Great Northern connection, he said, would make possible 100 percent utilization of Western Pacific facilities.

Traffic Told
John F. Stevens, consulting engineer for the Great Northern, told the commission that the estimate of $13,000,000 for the proposed route was high. The engineering problems are minor, Stevens said, in supporting the testimony of other engineers.

J. F. Bonn, Western Pacific freight agent, testified as to possible traffic. His findings support the theory that the new route would be profitable.

Under direct examination Gardner said the 200-mile strip varied from 45 to 100 miles in width and that it contained 37,500,000,000 feet of uncut timber and that approximately 200,000 acres of land were adaptable for agricultural purposes.

Plan Set
Southern Pacific attorneys, opposing the application, on the grounds that it is needless rail duplication, asked permission of examiner Charles D. Mahaffie to postpone cross-examination until Friday morning. This was granted.

One point stressed by Gardner was that the general character of the region in the vicinity of Klamath Falls, Ore., is similar to the country the proposed route would traverse. The Klamath Falls region, formerly a lumber and grazing territory, is developing agricultural diversity, Gardner said. He intimated that the lack of development between Klamath Falls and Keddle, as compared to the Klamath county development, was due to the lack of transportation facilities.

A feature of Bonn's testimony was a statement that the Denver and Rio Grande railroad would handle 13,000 additional cars of freight each year if the proposed line is built.

E. H. Wilde testified that tourist travel between Chicago and California via the northern route will increase more than 150 percent annually if the Great Northern-Western Pacific application is granted. The witness estimated that during the first year of operation 6000 passengers will move to and from between Klamath Falls and Bieber.

Suspect In Auto Thief Returned

James Walrath, who told police that he has no permanent address, is in the city awaiting hearing before Justice of the Peace Arthur Alstrom today on charges of driving a car without the owner's consent, and burglary.

Walrath was returned here from Calaveras last night by Police Inspector George Bengley and Patrolman A. J. Cundy.

According to police reports, Walrath is suspected of robbing the H. H. Tucker home at 4528 Wall avenue on the night of Oct. 13. He is also charged with taking a car from the inner harbor wharf during the wharf dedication fête on Oct. 12.

Police report that Walrath stripped the car and sold all of the accessories.

TEAR GAS USED IN AFRICA RIOTS

DURBAN, South Africa, Nov. 14.—UP—Five tear gas bombs were dropped by airplanes today to disperse crowds of natives gathered at a demonstration.

Troops were sent here by the South African government after thousands of natives had refused to pay their poll tax. Nine hundred persons were arrested here and many others in other sections. Police drafted at Natal raided native kraals to catch the defaulters.

Authorities attribute much of the rebellion to a secret body called the league of African Rights which is alleged to be spreading Communist doctrine and urging the natives to appeal to the League of Nations against so-called discriminations.

Secretary Good Resting Easy

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—UP—Resting satisfactorily after a day which gave attending physicians a slight degree of encouragement, Secretary of War James W. Good was still in a critical condition at 12:30 a. m.

A consultation of physicians at Walter Reed Army hospital where Good is a patient shortly after eight o'clock gave hospital attendants some concern for several hours, but late reports were that the patient had lapsed into a quiet sleep with chances favoring a restful night. Pulse and heart action were well sustained at that time.
